

Let me introduce you to Louie the Lobster.
Louie the Lobster, called Big Lou by his friends, was also a mobster.

Big Lou had stashed away lots of money and was a multi-millionaire.
He had a girlfriend named Mary the Monchong who he called Mare.
Mary had long purple and blue and pink curly hair.

Big Lou's friend and fellow mobster was Willie the Whale. Unfortunately for the last five years, Willie the Whale had been in jail. Willie promised he would not break the law anymore. He claimed he will no longer do the stupid things he did before. Willie also said that this time his taxes he would not ignore.

Big Lou's cousins Sammy the Snapper and Claude the Clam had plans to go to the movies one night. Sammy snapped at Claude and Claude clammed up, then they had a terrible fight. They did not go to the movies that night, admitted Claude the Clam. "No one was willing to give in", said Sammy also known as Sam. They both decided to take a swim and five miles each of them swam.

All the local businesses had to pay the mob weekly for protection. If they could not or would not, they were put on the list of rejection. Throughout the neighborhood, rejection lists were posted everywhere. Anyone entering a business of rejection was photographed going in there. Some who came out were never seen again, they simply disappeared.